

Boyden Appoints Jim Henry as Managing Partner in California

Leadership expert to steward board and C-suite assignments in healthcare, life sciences and technology

SAN FRANCISCO, February 13, 2020 – Boyden, a premier leadership and talent advisory firm with more than 65 offices in over 40 countries, today announced that Jim Henry has joined the firm as a Managing Partner in California.

Henry joins Boyden from PwC with a distinguished track record in board and C-suite talent strategy and succession, working with a broad range of publicly traded and private clients on a variety of financial and operational engagements.

“We are delighted Jim is joining Boyden to further fuel our California expansion and provide great support for our global partners,” said Jeff Hodge, Managing Partner of Boyden United States in California. “Jim’s vast experience working with boards and corporate leaders of large and growing organizations makes him a tremendous asset for our clients.”

Most recently, Henry served as Managing Partner of PwC’s San Francisco office, where he led the doubling of the firm’s business, and was responsible for talent development and key client relationships in the Bay Area. Earlier, Henry served as Vice Chair – Industries & Sectors, and led PwC’s Health Industries Practice, where he built the firm’s consulting business as an industry leader and formed its Health Research Institute.

Henry holds a bachelor’s degree in accounting from San Diego State University and has completed board governance programs at UCLA and Stanford University. He is a member of the National Association of Corporate Directors, and serves on several boards and community organizations including the Bay Area Council, UCSF’s Global Health Group, San Francisco Symphony and Larkin Street Youth Services.

“I am excited to join Boyden and continue my passion for developing executive-level talent and solving complex business challenges,” said Henry. “Boyden provides the combination of a world-class brand, a highly collaborative global team and entrepreneurial environment for the next phase of my professional life.”
