

Boyden Partner to Speak at Healthcare Leadership Conference

Boyden Healthcare Practice Partner Steve Nilsen will moderate a CEO panel on corner office lessons and executive promotions

MINNEAPOLIS, February 3, 2020 – Boyden, a premier global talent advisory and leadership solutions firm with more than 65 offices in over 40 countries, announced that Steve Nilsen, a Partner of Boyden United States, will speak at Dynamic Global Events' (DGE) Healthcare Leadership Conference on February 10 and 11 in Bloomington, MN.

The conference will bring together a mix of leaders and aspiring professionals from across the healthcare industry for a lively discussion on how to develop leadership skills critical for success on a management career path in the industry.

Nilsen, who is well-regarded for board, C-suite and senior management talent acquisition in Boyden's Global Healthcare & Life Sciences Practice, will moderate a featured panel entitled "Lessons from the Corner Office: How to Land that Promotion." The panel, comprised of CEOs, will discuss what it takes to be considered for an executive-level position, how to avoid potential career pitfalls, and what is needed to create value within the network, among other key takeaways.

CEOs on the panel will include:

- Brett Edelson – CEO of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, UnitedHealthcare
- Angie Zavoral Conley - Founder and CEO, AbiliTech Medical
- Chris Garabedian - Chairman and CEO, Xontogeny
- Wessam Sonbol – CEO, Delve Health

Later in the conference, Nilsen will join DGE's Marshall Cook as a host of "The World Café" to facilitate interactive discussion rounds with attendees. Topics will include: Transforming the Way We Lead, Navigating Complex Challenges, Moving Beyond Business as Usual, and Dynamic Leadership Principles.
